VALUABLE MUSIC BOOKS.

Musical Literature.

Musical Literature, at present, must be restricted to a narration of incidents connected with the career of great composers and distinguished performers. There is really nothing else to be written, except perhaps a good volume of musical history, and this again, at its 60th page, must arrive at Bach and Handel, since their birth, marked the creative era in music.

In the books below enumerated, is concentrated nearly all that is valuable in the history of musical events for a century or more, ending at a very recent period.

All are handsomely bound. None have tedious narratives. Interest is sustained to the end.

Every Student of Music should Read them.

They should be in every Town Library.

They should, in fact, be in all Libraries of any extent.

- CARMINA COLLEGENSIA. H. R. Waite. 2.25
"Old Noah, he did build an ark."

And since that day no jollier book of songs has been put together than this, made up of contributions from every college in the land. "Carmina Collegensia" means "College Songs," and college songs must needs be classical. And so they are, in spite of their pervading nonsense. This should be a familiar book in every parlor, as nothing lightens up the dullness of a company more than a short course of Tyndale and any of the two or three hundred others. The book, on the last pages, has a condensed history of the more prominent American colleges, which is quite convenient for reference.

CANTATAS.

SACRED.

- As the Hart Panta. Mendelssohn. Pa. 40; Bds, 50
Hymn of Praise. " 60; " 75
Ninety-Eighth Psalm. " 60; " 75
Three splendid works, universally considered as standards of musical excellence.
- Woman of Samaria. Wm. Sterndale Bennett. Paper 1.00; Bds. 1.25; Cloth, 1.50
Modestly assuming the title of Cantata, it may as properly be termed an easy Oratorio, and has been received with marked favor.
- Forty-Sixth Psalm. Dudley Buck. Paper 80; Bds. 1.00
A truly classical composition.
- Belshazzar. J. A. Butterfield. Paper, 1.00; Bds. 1.25
A sacred musical drama, the main incidents of which are taken from the Bible account of the fall of Babylon. A well-arranged, musical, interesting production.
- Belshazzar's Feast; or, the Fall of Babylon. Dramatic Cantata in 10 Parts. G. F. Root. 50
The same general subject as the preceding, but a different arrangement of everything.
- Daniel; or the Captivity and Restoration. In 3 parts. By G. F. Root and W. B. Bradbury. 50
- Ether; or, The Beautiful Queen. " 50
This, with the three Cantatas previously named, are just what is wanted for practice and recreation by Choirs and Societies that are not yet qualified to attack regular Oratorio Music.

Secular Cantatas.

- The Hay Queen. A Pastoral Cantata. Wm. Sterndale Bennett. Paper, 1.00; Cloth, 1.25
A beautiful composition, by a highly esteemed composer.
- The Pic-Nic. J. R. Thomas. 1.00
A spirited affair. The Gathering, the Departure, the Arrival, Sports and Games, the Storm, Breaking Away, the Farewell, and the Return, all "narrated" in lively poetry, and accompanied by the best of music. For mixed voices, but there is also an edition arranged for Soprano and Alto only.
- A Spring Holiday. C. C. Converse. 75
In 3 parts, and designed especially for Seminars, &c., where it will add much interest to exhibitions and concerts.
- The Haymakers. G. F. Root. 1.00
This general work renews its popularity with "each grass," and will do so for many seasons, and for many reasons, among which are its pretty, familiar, spry character; the good, smooth, easy-going music, and the ease with which the appropriate "machinery" can be obtained. Scythies, rakes, &c., are found everywhere, and a Haymaker's costume is not expensive.
- The Pilgrim Fathers. G. F. Root. 50
Will be a useful and agreeable piece to sing on Forefathers' Day or "Thanksgiving."
- The Flower Queen. G. F. Root. 75
Quite celebrated, and has many smooth-sounding choruses and songs, especially fitted for Seminars.
- The Culprit Fay. J. L. Ensign. 1.00
Most delicate, sweet and pretty Cantata. Tho finer your taste the better you will like it.
- Fairy Bridal. J. H. Hrcutt. 50
Subject from "Midsummer Night's Dream." Very sweet and graceful.
- Quarrel among the Flowers. Schoeller. 35
- Twin Sisters. H. S. Saroni. 50
Well composed Cantatas with simple but beautiful subjects.
- Musical Enthusiast. J. H. Hrcutt. 50
The "Enthusiast" agrees to give his daughter to the "best singer," and the songs and choruses evoked by the contest make up the short but very musical drama.
- Winter Evenings' Entertainment. Cull. Paper, 1.00; Cloth, 1.25
A regular rustic opera, as good for winter as the Haymakers is for summer.
- The above Cantatas range from the easiest to the most difficult, but each one in its place is good and entertaining. May be procured of any dealer.
